John,

The College parcel is not locally designated or determined to be historically significant – there is no BOCC ordinance or resolution recognizing any structure(s) on this property. Also, the parcel is not within a historic district – the only historic district we have is Tavernier.

Lastly, the parcel is not listed on a Historic Structure Form in the State’s Master Site File.

Do you need something on letterhead or will the e-mail suffice?

CAUTION

Thanks. We have to submit some documentation to the Florida Division of Historical Resources, and then they determine. One of the items we have to submit is a correspondence with the county.

Hello, to determine if a section 106 historical review is required, I would like to see if the building(s) are locally designated or determined to be historically significant and/or if building(s) are contributing to an identified/recognized historic district or neighborhood.
